In France a terrible spirit is rising which is not to be quelled by promises or threats. Throughout the kingdom there are signs of preparation for some great outbreak. Fresh crimes of extravagance and exaction are committed by the royal family and the murmurs of indignation and resentment are loudly heard. In vain for the rulers now to preach of the divine right of kings. A spirit of infidelity has taken possession of men s hearts, and the old lessons of humility and subjection to kingly power are being unlearned. We see the commencement of that great revolution which overturns the order of things established for centuries, and convulses with its terrors the whole of the civilized world. We see the prison of the Bastile, that monument of wrong and tyranny fall before the fury of the people. We see the king and his beautiful queen meet their death upon the block, and witness with horror the terrible scenes of violence and bloodshed which follow. The people now rule France and the families of the nobility are dragged to prison, only to be brought forth to meet their death upon the guillotine. The people are like wild beasts after their long and helpless endurance of wrong, and the streets of Paris run with blood. List upon list of victims are made out, and thousands die daily upon the scaffold or guillotine. Those of the nobility who escape the vengeance of the people flee into exile; but the lack of these legitimate victims...
