Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 442 pages. When 17 year-old Morrigan DeBurgh is awakened from a drug induced coma, her father confesses that he and her mom consciously chose to have her admitted to a psychiatric hospital to have her memories taken from her through a form of memory washing. After persuading her father to tell her the entire truth, she learns that not only does she have an inherited gift of being a Seer but she is also capable of physically pulling things from her dreams and nightmares. Upon their arrival home to Ridge, Maine her father continues answering questions to help his daughter understand why he and her mom made the choices they had. He gives her a box of memories explaining all of the earlier experiences that she had with her gift of precognition. This Ghost Box contains newspaper clippings and other trinkets that explain each situation that she had been part of, including a mask that she had pulled from a dream. With help from her twin brother Finn, Morrigan begins to understand that these precognitions weren't always positive; she had the blood of at least two men on her hands and on one occasion, she actually pulled something quite evil and foul from a nightmare that almost took the life of her brother. With the start of their final year at Ridge Valley Preparatory High School approaching, Morrigan needed her roommate and best friend Sadie Carmichael now more than ever. Other than her family she was the only person that would accept Morrigan for who she was and would look at her as normal rather than the monster that she felt she was. When Sadie flew in from New York City a couple of weeks prior to the start of school, Morrigan laid out all...
