Monday Coffee and Other Stories of Mothering Children with Special Needs

By -

INwords. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 274 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.1in. x 1.1in. Mothers of children with special needs feel guilt, sadness, and joy simultaneously, which is hard to understand. The mothers in this anthology don't seek pity; instead, they illustrate a complexity of emotions that start with diagnosis, explore care in both early and later years, and invite us to witness the aftermath of too-early deaths of their children. Weaving together essays, poems, and graphics by mothers of children with a wide range of disabilities, Jones and Whiteacre have edited a collection that highlights the challenges and joys of motherhood, exposing both fears and guilty pleasures as mothers explore their relationships with their children, partners, families, caregivers, educators, and the medical community. An exceptional compilation of writings. This is very important reading for educators, physicians, therapists and anyone who works with families of children with special needs. It will make us laugh and make us cry. And most importantly, it will open our eyes and help us to understand and support more effectively. - Dr. Ina Whitman, Neonatologist, St. Vincent Women's Hospital In Monday Coffee and Other Stories of Mothering Children with Special Needs, the authors deal with severe...

Reviews

Here is the best ebook I actually have gone through until now. It really is simplistic but shocking within the fifty percent in the ebook. Your daily life period will probably be transformed once you total reading this book.

Basically no terms to clarify. It can be written in basic terms instead of difficult to understand. I am easily able to get a enjoyment of reading through a composed publication.
