Not illustrated. 1914 edition. Excerpt: .in the investigation was designed to show whether the commonly practised custom of watering cuts lengthened or shortened the duration of the dripping period. In round numbers it was found that when the cut was watered the tree continued to drip for eighty-one minutes, when the cut was not watered, for 102 minutes; that when the tree was watered it yielded 250 drops, when not watered 510 drops. A second and more extensive experiment led to the astonishing conclusion that one thousand trees would give about 1 lb. less rubber a day if water were poured on the cuts than they would give if the cuts were not watered. The reason for this appears to be that the addition of water induces coagulation.-- Agricultural News. LIME JUICE AND SCURVY. The most notable example of the effect of certain substances existing in food in only minute...
